WHEN SHOULD YOU CALL 9-1-1

There are many different times when 9-1-1 can help.

Here are some examples:

1. To get help for someone who is hurt.
2. If you smell smoke or see a fire.
3. If you see someone stealing something.
4. If you see someone hurting someone else.

What should you say when you call 9-1-1?

1. Tell the person who answers what is going on.
2. Tell them your name, address, and telephone number.
3. Do not hang up until they tell you to hang up. They may have to ask you more questions.

CALLING 9-1-1

Read the sentences below and put a checkmark next to the example of when you might call 9-1-1 for help.

POLICE OFFICERS

Police officers are important people because they help keep us safe. Police officers are people who work to protect our cities and towns.

They make sure people follow the laws. When people break the law, police officers may take those people to jail in their police car or give them a ticket. Being a police officer can be a dangerous job.

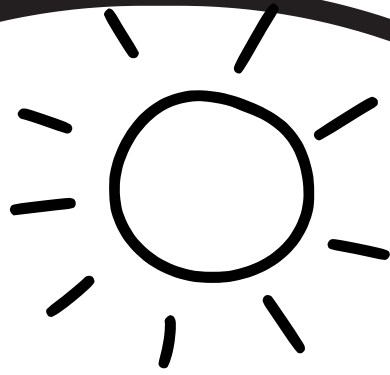

To be a police officer, you will need training. You should be brave and like to work with people. Police officers have a very important job in our community.
